Established in 1991, Boston Casting is the largest casting company in New England. Having worked with such directors as David O. Russell, James Mangold, Errol Morris, The Farrelly Brothers, David Mamet and Rob Reiner. Boston Casting has become the premiere casting company in the region with 6 casting directors and 3 studios including a green screen studio with teleprompter.

Boston Casting specializes in casting principal roles as well as extras for feature films, commercials, industrials, web videos and reality television shows. With over 40,000 union and non-union actors in the company's on-line database, including children, special ability actors and those seeking reality television fame, Boston Casting excels at finding just the right talent and arranging the perfect ensembles.

Angela Peri, owner and founder of Boston Casting, is a member of the Casting Society of America and a founding member of the Massachusetts Production Coalition. She has worked on hundreds of national, regional and local productions, from feature films to corporate industrials and commercials. An active member of the community, Peri also lends her expertise to organizations and events related to autism.
